THE SEQUEL TO "PAM."

Seldom has a sequel been more demanded, and seldom has the generally doubtful wisdom of acceding to the demand been more justified, than in the case of "Pam Decides," a sequel to "Pam," by Bettina von Hutten (Dodd, Mead and Company). The second story is even more charming than the first, and quite as original. Having created her fascinating little heroine, it was a foregone conclusion that the author could not leave her where she did—giving, despite her novel views of marriage, a stern, if weepy, denial to the unworthy proposals of Peele; and setting forth alone, with only the faithful nurse, Pilgrim, and the equally faithful companion, Caliban the monkey, to make a place for herself in the world, since, as she said, there seemed to be no "ready-made" place for her.

So here we meet Pam again, seven years older, and it might also be said seven years more attractive. She is on the third floor of a dingy Bloomsbury house, supporting herself and

Pam

The splendid sale to date of PAM DECIDES evidences a public's appreciation of the accomplishment of a difficult and dangerous task—that of writing a sequel which follows its original closely and completes it satisfactorily.

TO THE TRADE

and to those, if any there be, who are interested in the authorship of The Foolish Dictionary :

An advertisement in THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY of May 12th by a young man about to publish through another house a manuscript prepared for us at our suggestion, which on examination we rejected, announces that a circular issued by us "may tend to throw doubt upon the authorship of 'The Foolish Dictionary.'" We beg to state that the circular referred to was not prepared with a view to leaving any uncertainty as to that matter.

And in order that our position may be perfectly plain we reiterate :

THE FOOLISH DICTIONARY was originated, outlined and given its title by Mr. Luce of John W. Luce & Company.

THE FOOLISH DICTIONARY was compiled, prepared and edited by the same gentleman.

THE FOOLISH DICTIONARY text represents the work of no less than eight individuals.

THE PSEUDONYM, "GIDEON WURDZ," is used to embrace this diversified authorship, and any contributor to the Foolish Dictionary has as much right to personally appropriate it as the young man who signed the advertisement in question.

Incidentally, "FOOLISH ETIQUETTE," by O. B. HAYVE, which is also a pseudonym to cover a multitude of sinners, otherwise known as authors, will be issued immediately as No. 5 in the "Foolish" series.

Two Striking New Novels

Published To-Day

Arthur Stringer's new novel, THE WIRE TAPPERS, is a surprising story, with a new unhackneyed theme. The efforts of the heroine to extricate herself and the man she loves, an electrical inventor, from evil associations, together with the absorbing adventures which they share, make an unusually entertaining story.

Fully illustrated by Arthur William Brown. 12mo, cloth, $1.50

THE DISTRICT ATTORNEY, by William Sage, author of "Robert Tournay," "The Claybornes," etc., is a strong, timely story, dealing with political and financial life, in which a son of high ideals, unexpectedly elected district attorney, is arrayed against his father, the head of a powerful industrial combine. The characters are all strongly portrayed.

NOTES IN SEASON.

G. W. DILLINGHAM COMPANY has just issued "Extra Dry," by Bert Leston Taylor and W. C. Gibson, authors of "The Log of the Water Wagon;" "The Bottom of the Well," by Frederick Upham Adams; also "The Story of Paul Jones," by Alfred Henry Lewis. They will publish in August "The Lion and the Mouse," by Charles Klein, a story of American life, made from the play by Arthur Hornblow.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY have just ready an important work on "Consumption and Civilization," by Dr. John Bessner Huber. It is written for the layman as well as the physician, and while the basis of the book is the subject of prevention and cure of this dreaded disease, the scope of the work is much larger, it is encyclopædic on the subject of consumption. It deals not only with the prevention and cure, but treats of the subject from many other aspects.

GEORGE W. JACOBS & Co. have now ready "The Girl Out There," by Karl Edwin Harri-man, a summer love story with scenes laid in a restful country section. The hero is a broken-down newspaper man, the heroine a winsome, unassuming country girl, who talks fine common sense to the tired man seeking recuperation. They have also just ready "The Battles of Labor," by Carroll D. Wright, former U. S. Commissioner of Labor, which gives a thorough treatment of the strike problem.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. will publish on June 2 a volume entitled "Recollections and Letters of George Washington." This volume, which will be uniform with "Recollections and Letters of General Lee," will contain Washington's letters to his confidential secretary, Tobias Lear, and also Mr. Lear's affecting account of Washington's death. On the same date they will bring out the "Frog Book," by Mary C. Dickerson; "The Incomplete Amorist," by E. Nesbit; and "How to Make a Fruit Garden."

L. C. PAGE & Co. have just issued an edition de luxe of Mrs. Jameson's "Legends of the Madonna," first published in 1852, which still remains an authority on pictures of the Virgin Mary and the legends on which the pictures are based. This edition is printed from the best one existent, revised and enlarged by the author during her life. All the original illustrations are given and twenty-seven photogravure plates are added. They also call attention to "Stand Pat," David A. Curtis's Mississippi River stories, which appeared in the New York Sun and have now been collected into a volume. They represent a phase of life now fast disappearing which is full of human and historic interest.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS publish to-day the first volume of "Leo Tolstoy: His Life and Work," by Paul Birukoff, one of the most important biographies of recent years, which will be complete in three volumes. This is really the authorized biography of this famous man, as Birukoff has been for many years an intimate friend and follower of Tolstoy, and has had at his disposal all the material which Countess Tolstoy and other friends have been able to gather for him. The book is fully illustrated by photographs of Tolstoy and his home, etc. The first volume covers the life of Tolstoy until his marriage. They have also ready "The Seasons in a Flower Garden," by Louise Shelton, a practical guide for amateurs who have small gardens, where space must be economized in order to secure a variety of constantly flowering plants from April to November. The chapters follow the order of the months.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

The prices of net books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association are preceded in this list by a double asterisk , and the word net follows the price. The prices of fiction (not net) published under the rules are preceded by a dagger †. The prices of net books not covered by the rules, whether published by members of the American Publishers' Association or not, are preceded by a single asterisk, and the word net follows the price.

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

Abbott, G. F. Through India with the Prince [of Wales.] N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1906. 10+311 p. il. O. cl., *$3.50 net.

Mr. Abbott accompanied their Royal Highnesses, the Prince and Princess of Wales on their recent tour through India as special correspondent of the Calcutta Statesman. This volume is not so much a record of this progress as a description and analysis of present-day India. The processions and entertainments in honor of the royal guests are briefly referred to, while the Prince and Princess appear and disappear in these pages as they did to the waiting crowds in India and Burma. By the author of "Songs of modern Greece," "The tale of a tour in Macedonia," etc.

Athens, Constantinople, Buda-Pest, Vienna are visited in turn, then Egypt, the towns along the Adriatic, Southern Greece and the western Balkans. The author is connected with His Majesty's Indian Medical Service.

Becke, G. L. The adventures of a supercargo. Phil., Lippincott, 1906. 295 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

Tom Denison, seventeen years old and adventurous, is picked up during a storm in the harbor of Sydney, Australia, and carried to sea in a vessel that has been daringly pirated by a captain in revenge for an old injury inflicted on him by its owner. For months Tom is cruising among the Pacific islands, meeting many perils and proving himself a cool-headed, capable seaman. The crew go pearl hunting, have skirmishes with natives, and finally return to Australia with a valuable derelict in tow.

Bedwell, C. E. A. The increase of the episcopate; with an introd. by Edgar Jacob, D.D., Bishop of St. Albans. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1906. 10+147 p. maps, D. cl., *90 c. net.

A layman of the English church here presents a historical survey of the movement for increasing the number of bishops in the Church of England. The disadvantages of too limited an episcopate are shown; the mistakes arising from some recent amalgamations and divisions of dioceses and the probable results of proposed divisions.

Benson, Arthur Christopher. From a college window. N. Y., Putnam, 1906. c. 5+365 p. D. cl., $1.25 net.

Mr. Benson is a fellow of Magdalen College, Cambridge, and also author of a "Life of Edward Fitzgerald," of the much-discussed "Upton letters," published anonymously last year, and of other biographies and many poems. These eighteen essays represent his intimate thoughts concerning life. Bose, Jagadis Chunder. Plant response as a means of physiological investigation. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1906. 38+781 p. il. O. cl., $7.

Prof. Bose, who is on the staff of the Presidency College, Calcutta, India, and is author of "Response in the living and non-living," here gives an account of the investigations by which he has shown that all the important characteristics of the responses exhibited by animal tissues are also to be found in those of the plant. Further, he has tried to show that the plant may be regarded as a machine and that its movements in response to external stimuli are reducible to a fundamental unity of reaction; that its different life processes, such as growth, the ascent of sap, etc., are fundamentally due to some excitatory reactions. His experiments on plant movements have enabled him to distinguish between the effects of internal energy and external stimulus and to disentangle the complex phenomena which result from their combined action.

Although Dr. Brady began the study of Andrew Jackson with no predisposition to admire him, after examining his career from the point of view of friend and enemy, he has "become persuaded that Jackson is one of the three great presidents in our history, and that, although he stands below both of them, as a personality he is quite worthy of being mentioned in the same breath with George Washington and Abraham Lincoln." Dr. Brady represents Jackson as lawyer, planter, storekeeper, sportsman, soldier, politician and president; describes his duels, his family relations, the affair of Mrs. Eaton, his religion and last days. Appendix contains his nullification proclamation, farewell address, will and kindred papers.

Joubert, Carl. The fall of tsardom. Phil., Lippincott, 1906. 255 p. O. cl., *$2 net.

The author of "Russia as it really is" and "The truth about the Tzar" in this volume "describes the latest phases of the process of disintegration which drives the Russian people, whether intellectual or moujik, to seek relief from Tzardom in constitutional reform." He shows that the Revolutionists are neither madcaps nor dreamers, and that the moujik is fit for liberty if not for suffrage. In the main the work is a bitter, uncompromising arraignment of the Tzar and the bureaucracy. Mr. Joubert was for nine years a resident of Russia and during twenty years has been closely associated with its people. It is evident that the present book was written before the Peace of Portsmouth.

Lincoln, Joseph Crosby. Mr. Pratt: a novel; frontispiece by Horace Taylor. N. Y., A. S. Barnes & Co., 1906. [My.] c. 7+342 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

Mr. Solomon Pratt, who tells the story, and also took part in it, is the skipper of the sloop Dora Bassett. The scene is a primitive sea coast New England watering place. Here come two wealthy Wall Street magnates in search of "the natural life." They bring with them an English valet, who adds to the general fun. The ways of all are simple enough, but so strange to the uneducated natives that many amusing scenes are created out of their doings. By the author of "Cap'n Eri" and "Partners of the tide."

Lloyd, H: Demarest. Man, the social creator. N. Y., Doubleday, Page & Co., 1906. c. 5+279 p. por. O. cl., $2 net.

For several years before his death, in 1903, Mr. Lloyd, sociologist and economist, had planned to write a book on religion which should embody his conception of man as a creator or potential god, in which he should describe the manifestations of this creative ability as they are seen in various parts of the world. Notes for this work, made during his travels in Europe and Australasia, have now been edited and arranged by Miss Jane Addams and Miss Anne Withington. Mr. Lloyd believes that social love is the expression of religious motives and he here traces its growth in the labor movement, in political unrest, in the demand for education, in co-operative experiments, etc.

Magee, L. J. The American and the German "peril"; reprinted from the Engineering Magazine. [N. Y., L. J. Magee, 1906.] c. 3-63 p. sq. O. pap., gratis.

Comparison of American and German industrial methods, for the purpose of showing what the United States and Germany may learn from each other. The author thinks that in the size and in many cases in the organization of our industries, we are superior, but the Germans excel us in technical training and in thoroughness of preparation. He suggests an interchange of experience between nations; points out the differences in national traits that influence the industrial policy of each, and discusses American trade methods when put to the test in German markets.

Marchmont, Arthur Williams. By wit of woman. N. Y., F. A. Stokes Co., [1906. Ap.] c. '05. 362 p. col. front. D. cl., $1.50.

Christabel von Dreschler has been educated by her dead mother's brother, John P. Gilmore, and has just come into his large fortune, when she learns that her father, a colonel in the Austrian army, had before his death laid a heavy charge upon her. Papers left her show that he had been accused of a crime of which he was innocent and imprisoned for many years. His desire is that she go to Budapest and solve the mystery of his life and clear his name. She accepts the dangerous mission, and finds herself at once in the midst of a bold conspiracy, which aims at the severance of Hungary from Austria, and the setting-up of an independent Hungarian throne. A perfect maze of intrigue and adventure follows.

The German Who's who? It first appeared in 1905, and in its second year has been revised and enlarged with telling German thoroughness. It covers not only persons famous in literature, but all who have made themselves representative as chemists, painters, statesmen, political economists, etc. Foreigners are also admitted when their work has been of influence in German civilization. As in "Who's who?" for England and America the names are confined to the living.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

MAY 19, 1906.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

A POSTAGE-STAMP POSTAL CHECK SYSTEM.

THE ideal postal check or postal note system would be one that would enable a payor in any part of the country, as on a rural free delivery route or with the minimum of postal facilities, to send one check or note for any specified amount within the limits of the system, with the least possible trouble and the greatest possible safety, at a minimum cost to the government in accounting as well as in other expenses, at a low price to the purchaser, which would nevertheless fully cover the cost to the government—a check or note which could be made payable either at any post-office and to any person or at a specified post-office or to a specified person or to a specified person at a specified post-office, which could be enclosed in a letter or sent as a post-card, and which would provide for a receipt from the payee obtained by the paying postmaster and mailed by him to the payor. These conditions are not met by the postal note plan now before Congress, which to make up an odd sum (as $1.12) would involve the purchase at a post-office of as many as three separate notes, one of which at least must be filled out at the post-office of issue by a specification of the paying post-office and of the payee—a plan which requires a great variety of forms for the twenty-four fixed denominations and seems likely to prove costly to the government and cumbrous to the user. Probably the public would still go on using postage stamps in the ordinary loose way for enclosure in letters and let the minor denominations of postal notes severely alone, as these offer practically no advantages above those of the ordinary postage stamps.

A form of postal check devised by the present writer, though it is said to have been earlier suggested by Herbert Spencer, was described briefly in the Review of Reviews for March, 1905, by courtesy of which periodical an illustration of the obverse of the proposed check is presented herewith. The essential feature of this scheme and the one which has prevented its favorable consideration by the postal authorities is the use of ordinary stamps to make up the amount of the check. Postage stamps are legally used in England and elsewhere somewhat in the way proposed to bring a postal note of a stated even denomination up to a desired specific amount. It might be suggested that the use of cancelled stamps, cleaned for the purpose, would be a vital objection to such a scheme, but modern methods of cancellation are so effective that this does not seem to be the objection in the minds of the postal authorities, and in fact this danger exists equally in relation to letter postage and has not in late years been found a real one. The real objection from the post-office side seems to be a question of accounting and auditing. The postal revenues are determined by the sale of postage stamps, and the estimates for a given year depend upon the revenue thus indicated. But under present circumstances a considerable proportion of postage stamps is sold in advance of use, and constitutes a liability of the government, and this must be allowed for in estimating the revenue; if postage stamps were used also for postal check purposes it would simply mean that a larger proportion of allowance, determined after some experience, must be made for stamps remaining unused at the end of a fiscal year, while the government would meantime be the gainer, as a bank is a gainer from its deposits.

The illustration of the proposed check fairly tells its story. It is proposed that the limit should be five dollars or less, so that the check could easily be paid at small post-offices, though perhaps other than money-order offices might be authorized to require sufficient time to collect other than petty amounts from the nearest money order office. Only three forms at most would be required: a green blank, costing one cent, for a limit of one dollar; a red blank, costing two cents, for a limit of two dollars, and a purple or blue blank, costing three or five cents, for a limit of three or five dollars, the colors corresponding to the present stamps of like denominations. These blanks would be saleable the same as postage stamps, and both should be sold by rural carriers. On the reverse of the check there would be marked spaces for affixing ordinary postage stamps, by means of which any specified amount could thus be made up, perhaps a space for stating the purpose of the remittance, also spaces for the stamp of the office of sale and stamp of the paying office, which would cancel all the stamps on payment—the check itself being thus a complete voucher for the accounting and auditing departments. The check would be of the size of a postal card, so that it could be mailed as such by affixing a 1-cent stamp on the obverse at the usual place, while an additional 1-cent stamp on the opposite corner would require the paying postmaster to obtain from the payee a receipt, which the postmaster would officially mail in postal card form to the payor, thus thoroughly completing the commercial transaction. The obverse, it will be noted, provides spaces for the name and address of the sender, the specified amount made up by stamps affixed on the reverse, the name of a specified post-office, if it is desired to ensure payment only at that office, and the name of a specified payee if it is desired to make payment only to such person. Space is also provided for the address of the payee, so that the check may serve for mailing as a postal card instead of as an enclosure. If only the name of the payee is written in, the check would be payable at any post-office to such person on reasonable identification, thus taking the place of the ordinary traveller's checks. By this means any farmer on a rural delivery route could buy from the carrier the checks and the stamps to make up any specified amount, and at an additional cost of 1 cent for postage and 1 cent for receipt could obtain an official acknowledgment of actual payment to a designated person in any part of the country.

The proposed plan seems to have all the advantages of universality, flexibility, and minimum of cost, both to the user and to the government. It would involve also a minimum of accounting and auditing, as it would be a self-sufficing voucher at every stage of the transaction. Bookkeeping must be planned to suit business, and not business to suit bookkeeping, and this is as true in governmental as in private business. For larger sums the complicated advice and vouchers of the present money order system should perhaps be maintained, but for smaller sums the simplest safe system should be adopted. It is certainly a fair question whether the people should not have the advantage of so simple and safe a system as that proposed. There would doubtless be opposition in Congress from the powerful express companies, and to a considerable extent from local interests, but the service of such a system throughout the constituency of any district, and particularly of a rural and farming district, should ensure for such a plan, unless there are reasons other than technical or self-interest objections, the necessary support.

R. R. B.

THE sixth annual convention of the American Booksellers' Association, held in New York City this week, was notable rather for large attendance and social features than for actual work accomplished. This is no reproach to the Association; on the contrary, gatherings of the members of any trade serve a purpose principally in bringing its members into closer relations, by encouraging them to exchange opinions, to offer suggestions and to stimulate the despondent and weaker members to greater optimism and larger activity. The telling work of such organizations, however, must be done by the committees, generally made up of the stronger and more representative of its membership, and in this direction the choice of the American Booksellers' Association is to be highly commended. These committees will no doubt give the questions brought before them very careful consideration, and give a good account of themselves in due time. So far as the finances of the Association are concerned, the outlook was never more hopeful, and now that the bugbear of possible extra assessments is for the time pushed into the background, the membership ought to be at least doubled by the time the seventh annual convention is held.

CONVENTION OF THE AMERICAN BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATION.

THE sixth annual convention of the American Booksellers' Association met in one of the parlors of the Victoria Hotel, in New York, on the morning of May 15. The meeting was called to order at ten o'clock by Clarence E. Wolcott, who was appointed temporary chairman owing to the unavoidable absence of W. Millard Palmer, the president of the Association.

FIRST SESSION.

The following responded to the roll call at the first session:

Arthur M. Allen, Troy, N. Y.
G. Blatchford, Pittsfield, Mass.
E. R. F. Blogg, Baltimore, Md.
Albert Brandt, Trenton, N. J.
A. M. Brechin, Charlottesville, Va.

A. B. Fifield, (Edward P. Judd Co.,) New Haven, Conn.
H. W. Fisher, Philadelphia, Pa.
W. Y. Foote, Syracuse, N. Y.
H. Gregory, Providence, R. I.
E. T. Hanford, Middletown, N. Y.
Alexander Hill, (The Robert Clarke Company,) Cincinnati, O.
Henry Hutchinson, New Bedford, Mass.
Davis L. James, Cincinnati, O.
J. G. Kidd, (Payot, Upham & Co.,) San Francisco, Cal.
Edward Madison, Montclair, N. J.
Henry Malkan, New York City.

Frank M. Morris, Chicago, Ill.
William Rickey, Nanuet, N. Y.
H. Taylor Rogers, Asheville, N. C.
John R. and Mrs. Runyon, Morristown, N. J.
Henry Saunders, Oneonta, N. Y.
V. M. Schenck, (Henry R. Johnson,) Springfield, Mass.
H. J. Shanley, Burlington, Vt.
John Sterling, Watertown, N. Y.
Louis E. Turk, (Board of Reformed Church,) New York City.
K. M. Washburn, (G. & C. Merriam Co.,) Springfield, Mass.
Alexander Wasserman, New York City.
Clarence E. Wolcott, Syracuse, N. Y.

There were present, besides, a number of members of the New York City trade and others, and letters of regret were read from upwards of thirty out-of-town members who were unable to be present, but who expressed themselves in hearty sympathy with the work of the Association and wished their fellow members all success.

The reading of the minutes being dispensed with the secretary, Harry F. Davis, presented the following report:

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

The year which closes May 15, 1906, has been a most successful one for the American Booksellers' Association. The net system is firmly established and working smoothly in all parts of the country. Protection has the support of practically every bookseller, and the large department stores are standing up loyally for one price and a fair profit.

At our last convention we reported a total indebtedness of $2261.79; to-day we report an indebtedness of $921.79, a reduction during the year of $1340; and we can confidently state that at the next convention we can show all debts paid and a balance in the treasury.

During the past year we have received many letters from dealers, all asking that we do something in the direction of a better price on fiction, and it seems to me that this convention should bend its efforts towards a $1.20 price on fiction. The question of a two-year limit should also receive careful consideration.

The number of dealers who are supporting the net system by paying their annual dues is not as large as it should be. This work should not fall upon a few. It should be borne by all, and steps should be taken by this convention towards securing the material support of every bookseller in the country.

Taking all in all we have had a good year. The future is bright and the full strength of this Association should be thrown towards a $1.20 price on $1.50 fiction.

HARRY F. DAVIS, Secretary.

The treasurer's report was next in order, and when read was heartily applauded:

The auditing committee in passing upon the treasurer's report made the following statement:

We have examined the accounts of the Association and found them correct and kept in a most excellent manner.

Vouchers have been kept for all amounts expended.

There is a balance on hand, and every member of the Association can see what has been done with the money during the past year.

The following letter from Mr. Palmer, the president, was then read:

Harry F. Davis, Secretary American Booksellers' Association.

MY DEAR MR. DAVIS: In my inability to be present at the opening of the convention Tuesday morning, I am writing to tell you of a few things that I had in mind to be acted upon by the organization of the A. B. A. My experience has taught me that we should have quite a number of committees to be actively at work during the year. Those that particularly come to my mind are the following: A committee on relations with the publishers, a committee on relations with librarians, a committee for the programme for the next annual convention, and a committee for the programme for the next annual banquet. Selection of the last named committee should be made after the place of meeting has been determined.

Naturally we all gravitate to New York as the centre of the publishing and booktrade interests. We have been so royally entertained that it would be very hard indeed to break away from the cordial hospitality which has warmed our hearts each time we have assembled in the metropolis. But it has made itself evident that a meeting in a city like Chicago, or one of the large cities of the central west, would probably bring into active co-operation booksellers who find that the distance from their home to New York is too great to cover each year. Perhaps it would be wise to place this question in the hands of a committee with instructions to act in the near future.

We can heartily congratulate ourselves upon the attitude assumed by many of the publishers in making increased discounts upon net books. I believe we should make an expression to the publishers in a general way showing our appreciation of their efforts to bring the bookselling business to a profitable basis.

I am informed that the publishers have been seriously considering the postponement, for three years, of publication in the cheap edition of novels which have been marketed at $1.50, if they have not already acted. The A. B. A. can well afford to make a clear-cut expression upon this subject. The publication of novels in cloth bindings to sell at 50 cents soon after the original $1.50 novel has been issued has proved disastrous to the sale of novels at $1.50.

Looking forward to seeing you on Wednesday, and with warm regards, I am,

Very truly yours,

W. MILLARD PALMER.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH., May 14, 1906.

The subject of net fiction was next taken up. In regard to this matter, the following letter from the Booksellers of the City of New York was read:

To Harry F. Davis, Secretary American Booksellers' Association.

DEAR SIR: At a meeting of the booksellers of New York, held on Thursday last, Mr. Simon Brentano presiding, it was moved and seconded that the A. P. A. be requested to publish fiction at net prices. I was authorized to communicate this resolution to your association, that you might know the feeling of the New York trade in regard to this subject.

Yours very truly,

E. S. GORHAM, Secretary.

NEW YORK, May 12, 1906.

The reading of this letter was followed by a discussion that was interrupted by the noon recess. Before adjourning for luncheon the following resolution was presented and unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That we extend our heart-felt sympathy to our brother booksellers in San Francisco, and that we most cordially commend the spirit they have displayed under the terrible calamity that has visited them. We sincerely express our belief in a new and greater San Francisco in the very near future.

SECOND SESSION.

The second session was called to order at 2:30 P.M. The discussion of the question of net fiction was resumed, the result of the discussion being that a committee composed of H. B. Burrows, W. B. Clarke, Clarence E. Wolcott, Alexander Hill and Harry F. Davis were appointed to meet a committee of the American Publishers' Association to take action jointly as to the ways and means of carrying out the recommendations of the committee.

The convention was then turned into an "experience meeting." A number of those present told of their experiences in conducting circulating library schemes to add to their incomes, in developing departments of second-hand books, in adding certain novelties to their book departments, etc. R. E. Sherwood, who, as he said, made Fulton Street, New York City, "notorious," kept the gathering convulsed for some time with an "unvarnished account" of his "circus methods" in conducting a bookstore. The convention then adjourned until Wednesday morning.

THIRD SESSION.

The third session of the convention was called to order at 10 o'clock in the morning of May 16. The session was short, and was taken up largely with routine business.

The Committee on Resolutions presented the following resolutions, that were unanimously adopted:

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON RESOLUTIONS.

MR. PRESIDENT: Your Committee on Resolutions beg leave to submit the following report:

WHEREAS, The members of the American Booksellers' Association, now in sixth annual convention assembled, recognizing and appreciating the interest displayed by the American Publishers' Association toward the bettering of the condition existing in the booktrade of the United States, now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That we request the members of the American Publishers' Association to issue in the future all works of fiction on the net price plan, and would suggest $1.20 net as the price on books that under the existing plan would be issued at $1.50 list, and a similar proportionate net price be made on such works of fiction as would ordinarily be listed at $1 or $1.25.

Resolved, That the members of the American Publishers' Association be requested to grant to retail dealers a discount of at least thirty per cent. on net books of all sorts, and that they shall discontinue cataloguing on the net price basis all non-copyrighted imported books.

Resolved, That the recent action of the publishers, providing that a reduced price edition of a work of fiction shall not be put forth for a period of at least two years after date of original publication, be most heartily commended.

Resolved, That an expression of appreciation for the loyal manner in which the department stores have aided this Association in all its efforts be conveyed to such department store book managers.

Respectfully submitted,
W. B. CLARKE,
ALEXANDER HILL.
DAVIS L. JAMES.
EDWARD MADISON.
H. B. BURROWS, Chairman.

The Committee on Nominations reported as follows:

W. Millard Palmer, Grand Rapids, Mich., president.

Charles W. Burrows, Cleveland, O., first vice-president.

Edwin B. Curtis, San Francisco, Cal., second vice-president.

Frederic F. Hansell, New Orleans, La., third vice-president.

Harry F. Davis, Pittsburg, Pa., secretary.

Walter L. Butler, Wilmington, Del., treasurer.

The Executive Committee remains as before, with the substitution of W. B. Clarke for August Eckle, and Charles A. Burkhardt for J. W. Nichols, who resigned.

The Advisory Board remains unchanged with the exception of John V. Sheehan & Co., and Henry Saunders, who takes the place of Macauley Brothers, Detroit, Mich., and Megeath Stationery Co., of Omaha, Neb.

The following are the standing committees for the year:

Committee on Relations with Publishers.—W. B. Clarke, H. B. Burrows, Frank Morris.

Committee on Relations with Librarians.—H. Gregory, E. T. Hanford, John Sterling.

Committee on Programme for Next Annual Convention.—Walter L. Butler, Arthur M. Allen, W. Palmer East.

Committee on Programme for Next Annual Banquet.—C. A. Burkhardt, Henry Malkan, Louis E. Turk.

It was decided to hold the next convention again in New York City. After voting thanks to the affiliated associations who co-operated so cordially in making the convention a success, to the proprietors of the Hotel Victoria and others the convention adjourned to meet again at the dinner that was given in the evening at the Aldine Association.

SIXTH ANNUAL DINNER.

The dinner of the American Booksellers' Association, arranged for by that master-organizer of banquets—Charles A. Burkhardt—was a success both as regards number and entertainment. There were present 325 persons, nearly every one engaged in the business of making and selling books, with a large contingent from the stationery trade. Each plate was flanked by a copy of "Toasts," compiled by W. M. Rhoads and illustrated by Clare Victor Dwiggins, that had been bound in a special cover, the design of which is shown below, and had been presented to the American Booksellers' Association by the Penn Publishing Company, of Philadelphia.

G. W. Dillingham Company presented the guests of the Association with autographed copies of their new book, "Extra Dry: being further adventures of the Water Wagon," by Bert Leston Taylor and W. C. Gibson, authors of "The Log of the Water Wagon."

The sorbet and the after-dinner cigar were served in a red paper box gotten up to imitate six books labelled "The Six Best for the Six Best," the titles of the books, in white, being "The Wheel of Life," "The House of a Thousand Candles," "The House of Mirth," "The Conquest of Canaan," "A Maker of History" and "Lady Baltimore." The cost of making these boxes was borne by the publishers of the books quoted.

When the tickets were taken up another surprise was in store for the guests, namely, a handsome seal skin pocket memorandum book presented with the compliments of the Kiggins & Tooker Company, and a special edition of "The Gentle Art of Dining," by F. Hopkinson Smith, presented by Charles Scribner's Sons.

After the coffee had been served, Clarence E. Wolcott, who acted as toastmaster in the place of W. Millard Palmer, in a few words introduced W. G. Preston, who welcomed the gathering in the name of The Booksellers' League, of which he is president. Simon Brentano, on behalf of the Booksellers of New York, spoke a few happy words of welcome.

Major F. T. Leigh, of Harper & Brothers, who had been chosen to welcome the Association on behalf of the publishers, closed his remarks as follows: "The publisher and bookseller have in various changing ways been the distributors of the author's book to the reader. And so it will continue that authors will write and people will read; but it is not certain that the methods by which the publisher and bookseller now distribute books will continue. As changes of methods of distribution have taken place in the past, so we may believe that changes may take place in the future. I do not know what these changes may be. They may be small or great, but there are apt to be changes.

"It would, therefore, seem wise that conditions of trade and relations between publisher and bookseller should be discussed in convention and at banquet in order that changes, if there be any, should be properly and conservatively made. So for personal and business reasons, gentlemen, your presence in this city is warmly welcomed, your purpose commended and your deliberations watched with interest.

"We have in this city some publishers, booksellers and distributors of books. These gentlemen can confer with each other at their convenience at almost any time. The bookseller who resides away from New York we can only confer with through correspondence or through the intervention of our salesmen. The bookseller who lives away from New York is growing in numbers and importance. Looking ahead a generation, taking into consideration the growth of our population and reading public, the bookseller away from New York by proper combination may possibly absolutely control the methods and means by which the work of the author will reach the reader. Matters of this kind are of slow growth, and who knows but that your deliberations of yesterday and to-day may have been the beginning of the changing of conditions important to a tremendous degree.

"I beg to take this opportunity to express our deep sympathy with the distress and disaster which recently came to the members of the booktrade of San Francisco, and if not already arranged for, I would suggest that a message assuring them of our thoughts of them be sent from this dining table by the chairman on behalf of all present."

It was unanimously voted to send such a message.

Victor W. Cupples gave a welcome from the Brotherhood of Commercial Travellers, and William E. Smith one from the Boost Club of New York.

Dr. Herbert Putnam, Librarian of Congress, who was to be the first guest of honor to speak, was unfortunately unable to be present, and sent the following letter of regret:

DEAR MR. BURKHARDT: Your note of yesterday with the ticket was by no means needed as a reminder, for I had in no wise forgotten the dinner; but I was just about to dictate a note to you to the sorry effect that I can't come after all. I hate to withdraw from engagements—particularly this one—but matters have arisen and are in prospect which require me to be in Washington on the 16th and will prevent my attendance at the dinner. I am very much disappointed indeed, and trust that you will convey this to your Committee of Arrangements. My disappointment is my own deprivation and not yours, in regard to anything that I should give in the way of an "address," seeing that your programme was even in anticipation a long one, and programmes that are long in anticipation must be prodigious in the experience.

Trusting that my word reaches you in season to avoid inconvenience.

Faithfully yours,
HERBERT PUTNAM,
Librarian of Congress.

F. Hopkinson Smith made a plea for clean, sweet and optimistic literature, closing his remarks by saying "it is of no use to write anything but the human truth; and, in story-writing, to appeal to the people we must go back to that power which made 'David Harum' great, which made us weep in 'Trilby' and which calls from the throat in Thackeray's death of Colonel Newcome the almost involuntary 'Adsum.'"

Rex E. Beach, author of "The Spoilers," etc., speaking of the author and his inspiration and the publisher and his worries and the bookseller and his toil, said: "A publisher can no more make an author than an author can make himself. When I was told that if I tried hard enough I could write a book, I planted one and a half acres of manuscript upon seemingly fertile soil. I raised one book as a crop. Then I discovered that I had to find a publisher. I hadn't thought of that. When I found a publisher, I discovered that I wasn't at the end of my troubles; I had to find a bookseller. He and the reader who depends on him are the makers of books."

Charles Battell Loomis in his irresistible manner described some of the complications that arose from people everywhere on the Pacific coast mistaking him for Charles F. Lummis, and concluded by reading a very funny poem of a little girl with a gold elbow, bestowed upon her by a fairy, which she had removed by a surgeon who ran off with it; when the fairy, in pity, touched her head, which also turned to gold, her parents refused to subject her to a surgical operation, but kept her and remained rich forever after.

Dillon Wallace, author of "The Lure of the Labrador Wild," who was present as the guest of Mr. Revell, at the request of the toastmaster greeted the Association in a few words.

John William Sargent, president of the Society of American Magicians, and author of "Toasts for the Times in Pictures and Rhymes," favored the company with a number of very clever slight-of-hand tricks, and J. Wallace Mackey again astonished his hearers with his musical mimicry.

At a late hour the convention adjourned sine die.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & CO'S EMPLOYEES AT DINNER.

THE fourth annual dinner of the employees of Doubleday, Page & Co. took place at the St. Denis Hotel on Thursday evening, May 10. There was an attendance of 150 of the male employees. Frank N. Doubleday, Walter H. Page, Henry W. Lanier, H. S. Houston and S. A. Everitt, of the firm, were the guests of the occasion.

The programme was a large and merry one. There were no formal speeches, and there were several parodies contributed. Songs were sung by Mr. Kimberly, Harold Howe and the world-famed "nigger minstrel troupe," consisting of John Livingstone, David Gillespie and Oscar Kimberly. Their clever repartee, topical allusions, etc., brought down the house. The programme was concluded by the singing of several songs in unity.

It is interesting to note that four years ago at the first annual dinner given by the employees of the firm there were exactly 75 people present. The menu was a most original document, being an exact parody in shape and size and contents of The Worker, the house organ, edited and published by the employees. The Shirker, as the bill of fare was called, was an extremely witty, satirical document and nobody escaped without a "roast." E. Byrne Hackett was chairman of the dinner committee and O. B. Capens, author of "Country Homes of Famous Americans," was toastmaster.

THAYER QUILTS EVERYBODY'S.

It is announced that John Adams Thayer will retire on June 1 from the management of Everybody's. Mr. Thayer has been treasurer and general manager of the Ridgway-Thayer Company ever since he and his two partners, Erman J. Ridgway and G. W. Wilder, purchased the magazine. The announcement of Mr. Thayer's retirement was made in this statement: "John Adams Thayer, treasurer and general manager of the Ridgway-Thayer Company, publisher of Everybody's Magazine, retires on June 1 from active participation in the management of the company. It is learned that while Mr. Thayer has sold the larger part of his stock to his original partners in the enterprise, he retains an interest which leaves him the third largest stockholder in the company. Mr. Thayer's reasons for withdrawing are wholly of a business nature. He is not in accord with his associates in their plan to start another publication—a weekly—at this time, in which he would have less than a controlling interest. Mr. Thayer's work has been chiefly directed to building up the advertising income of Everybody's, as earlier that of The Delinquent and The Ladies' Home Journal."

DECISION AGAINST THE PAPER TRUST.

THE GENERAL PAPER COMPANY, the so-called Western Paper Trust, on May 11 withdrew its answer in the suit brought against it in the United States Circuit Court at St. Paul, Minn., by the Attorney-General to prove a violation of the Sherman anti-trust law. James M. Beck, who, with Frank B. Kellogg, of St. Paul, represented the Government as special counsel in the Paper Trust cases, made this statement: "The real significance of this case consists not merely in the important decision rendered by the Supreme Court as to the power of the Government to compel a corporation to produce its books and papers, notwithstanding the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments, but in the fact that it is now held to be within the prohibition of the Sherman anti-trust law for a number of competing corporations to establish a common sales agency."

"In this case some twenty-three corporations formed the General Paper Company, and practically sold all of their product through the General Paper Company to the trade.

The General Paper Company fixed the prices, made the various allotments among the constituent mills, and, after deducting a percentage for its expenses, remitted the balance to the various constituent companies, in proportion to their several outputs."

WORK OF THE AMERICAN BIBLE SOCIETY.

THOUGH less than six months ago officials of the American Bible Society feared an indebtedness of at least $75,000, they reported to the members at the ninetieth annual meeting in the Bible House on the 11th inst. that the year had closed with a balance on the right side of the books. Furthermore, there had been distributed Scripture and parts of Scripture in larger amounts than in any previous year of the society's existence.

The annual report showed that 2,236,755 Bibles were issued, of which only 940,367 were printed at the Bible House, the rest being printed by the society on mission presses in China, Japan, Siam, Syria and Turkey. The increase over the previous year was 405,659 volumes.

The ninetieth anniversary was taken as a theme by most of the speakers.

BACKING UP THE BOOKSELLER.

THE following from the Canadian Bookseller and Stationer will no doubt be of interest to our readers:

"A course of action, which is worthy of commendation, is being pursued by the Macmillan Company, of Canada, in their dealings with customers not engaged in the retail trade. In all cases where such customers desire to buy direct from the publishers, they are referred to the booksellers doing business in their respective localities, while at the same time the booksellers are notified that such and such books have been asked for. By thus recognizing the rights of the retail trade the Macmillan Company have adopted a principle which should be pursued by every Canadian publisher.

"It has been no easy task for the Macmillan Company to introduce this principle. University professors, librarians and others, on learning that the company intended to establish a Canadian branch, at once concluded that it would be possible to buy books direct at a very low cost. Disappointed in their hopes, they have been forced to go to their local booksellers for the supply of their requirements. This is not calculated to give the professors, librarians and others a very kindly feeling towards the Macmillan Company. . . .

"On the part of the retail trade there should be some show of gratitude for the services rendered. No publisher can continue such a course of action unless he is firmly backed up by those whom he benefits. The bookseller should be zealous in business, endeavoring to fulfill his functions in the highest degree. If he falls short no one can blame the publishers if they withdraw their direct support."

THE DECEITFULNESS OF BOOK TITLES.

MANY book titles convey no idea of the nature of the contents, many tell the motive of the story, and others create wrong impressions as to what is to be found in the volume. For example, "The Jungle" is not a story of India, but of the beef-packing trade in Chicago; "The Spur" is not a horse story, but of a New Zealand sheep shearer; "The Rat-Trap" is not a story of rodentia, but of adventures on an island; "Black Beauty" is not a story of a pretty colored girl, but of a street-car horse. There has just been published another book with a misleading title. It is called "A Lame Dog's Diary," and its author is S. Macnaughtan. The "Lame Dog" is not a dog at all, but a soldier who at Magersfontein was shot in the legs, and confides his confessions, which lead up to a love episode, to a diary. And the examples might be multiplied by the hundreds.

BOOKS IN DEMAND IN ENGLAND DURING APRIL.

THE best-selling books in England during April, according to the London Book Monthly, were:

The Angel of Pain, by E. F. Benson.

Ring in the New, by Richard Whiteing.

If Youth But Knew, by Mr. and Mrs. Egerton Castle.

Home Life with Herbert Spencer, by "Two."

On the Queen's Errands, by Philip H. W. Wynter.

Antoinette Stirling, and other celebrities, by M. Stirling Mackinlay.

COMMUNICATIONS.

SWINDLING BOOKSELLERS IN NAPLES.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: We have recently discovered that some firms at Naples have been "bilking" booksellers on this side to the extent of $325, and, also, in one case they managed to get books, (ordering from a catalogue,) value $36, all the way from Salt Lake City. We have sent the particulars to the British Consul at Naples, and he has been instrumental in causing the police to take action. If any of your subscribers should have claims on booksellers at Naples, and will send us statements of account, together with the original orders in the handwriting of the firms, they shall be handed to the Consul, and we will inform them of the result.

OBITUARY NOTES.

HENRY BEROLZHEIMER, the founder of the Eagle Lead Pencil Company, died in Nuremberg, Bavaria, April 15, aged seventy. Mr. Berolzheimer founded his lead pencil factory in 1857, in Nuremberg, the American branch in New York being opened up in 1868, having been located since 1877 at 710 East Fourteenth Street. Mr. Berolzheimer for some time made New York his home, but of late years lived in Nuremberg. The King of Bavaria some time ago conferred upon Berolzheimer the title of Commerzienrath, (chancellor of commerce.)

CARL SCHURZ ended his long and useful life on Monday, May 14, dying of pneumonia at his home, 24 East 91st Street, New York City. The great bulk of Mr. Schurz's literary work was done for newspapers and magazines, or appeared in pamphlet form. He was the author of "The Life of Henry Clay," in two volumes, in the American Statesmen series, and of an "Essay on Lincoln," also published in book form. Mr. Schurz was born at Liblar, near Cologne, Prussia, March 2, 1829. After being identified with the liberal movement in Germany in the late forties, he emigrated to America in 1852. He learned the English language as perfectly as a foreigner can acquire it, and as a speaker and writer was master of expression. He was a thorough American and always stood for reform and independence and true American ideals of liberty and progress.

PERSONAL NOTES.

W. F. P. CONNOR, on May 15, rounded out his thirty-eighth year in the service of John Wiley & Sons, twenty-eight of them as book-keeper—an honorable record of loyal service faithfully performed and highly appreciated.

E. R. F. BLOGG has entirely recovered from his recent illness, and has resigned his position as manager of the retail department of Wm. J. C. Dulany Co., Baltimore, Md. His present address is 2506 St. Paul Street, Baltimore, Md.

KENNETH G. BERGER, who has been buyer for the book and stationery department of the Edward Malley Company, New Haven, Conn., for the past two and a half years, has just severed his connection with them to accept a similar position with the Callender, McAuslan & Troup Co., of Providence, R. I., succeeding Mr. McCahey, who has resigned after a service of about twenty years.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will publish at once special editions of two bibliographies, one of the works of James Russell Lowell, compiled by George Willis Cooke, the other of the writings of Henry James, compiled by Le Roy Phillips, both of which have already been fully described by us.

Le Bulletin des Bibliothèques Populaire, published monthly (except August and September,) under the auspices of the Musée Pédagogique, E. Cornély, 101 Rue de Vaugirard, Paris, is published to fulfil a twofold purpose: first, to promote the interests of popular libraries, serving as a bond between the libraries and their friends, and publishing at intervals articles of doctrine or information relating to the work of popular libraries in France and elsewhere; second, to serve as a critical bulletin of new French books, for the use of persons administering or availing themselves of public, popular or school libraries in France or elsewhere. The March and April numbers are entirely devoted to a classed, selected and fully annotated record of new publications, careful and useful in selection, of French books.

(No. 262, 1382 titles.)

BUSINESS NOTES.

LOS ANGELES, CAL.—Cunningham, Curtiss & Welsh have decided to make this city their headquarters. They have secured a controlling interest in the Stoll & Thayer Company and the two companies will combine their business, retaining a branch in San Francisco. Simon Stoll, president and founder of the firm, retires from active business after a career of thirty-three years. Mr. Stoll established the business as a news-stand in 1873, and as a result of his enterprise and ability it has grown until it now employs thirty-five people, and is considered one of the largest retail stationery companies on the Pacific Coast. The active management of the larger business will remain in practically the same hands, and the name of the company will not be changed. The destruction by fire of the store of Cunningham, Curtiss & Welsh in San Francisco interfered only with that concern's business, and did not diminish its extensive shipping trade.

NEW YORK CITY.—Brentano's have secured quarters at the southeast corner of Fifth Avenue and Thirty-second Street, where a new building will be erected for them. The store will be 20 x 125, with a basement about 150 feet deep and two stories above the store. They expect to occupy the store in about a year.

NEW YORK CITY.—By order of the court the receiver for the Consolidated Retail Booksellers will sell by auction the office furniture and fixtures of the defunct concern on May 23, 10:30 A.M. The assets, with the exception of the Book and Newsdealer, were, it is reported, sold at satisfactory prices.

OAKLAND, CAL.—De Witt & Snelling have bought out Wood's Old Book Store and will continue at 111 Telegraph Avenue. They request dealers in old books to send catalogues.

OTTUMWA, IA.—The Longfellow Company, booksellers, have been succeeded by Roy P. Clark.

PARIS, TEX.—The book and stationery store of Bedford & Crooke was damaged by fire a week ago.

READING, PA.—Walter G. Roland has opened a bookstore here. Inadvertently, in a recent issue, we noted that he had opened a bookstore in New York City.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.—The firm of Payot, Upham & Co. has been succeeded by the firm of Isaac Upham & Co., Mr. Payot retiring. The firm will continue at Seventeenth and Folsom Streets.

TOPEKA, KAN.—J. F. Clarkson, bookseller, has gone out of business.

WATERVILLE, ME.—L. C. Davis has bought the book and stationery business of S. A. Cobb.

WICHITA FALLS, TEX.—Noble & Leete, booksellers, have been succeeded by Boyd & Noble.

AUCTION SALES.

MAY 22, 3 P.M.—Library of the late Colonel George T. Batchelor, including Americana, books on Ireland, etc. (347 lots.)—Merwin-Clayton.

MAY 23, 24, 3 P.M.—Selections from a private library. (637 lots.)—Merwin-Clayton.

MAY 24, 25, 3 and 7:30 P.M.—Private library of the late Charles A. Lighthipe, of Orange, N. J. Part 1, consisting of standard authors in fine bindings, rare books, illustrated by the Cruikshanks and other noted illustrators, etc. (840 lots.)—Anderson.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will bring out in this country Paul Sabatier's new work on the "Disestablishment in France."

JOHN LANE COMPANY have just brought out a novel by Harold Wintle, entitled "The Cleansing of the Lords," the underlying theme of which is the old agitation for abolishing or making over the House of Lords in England.

G. SCHIRMER, New York, has published three interesting "Songs of Ancient America," comprising Pueblo Indian corn-grinding songs from Laguna, New Mexico, recorded, with pianoforte accompaniment and an explanatory introduction, by Natalie Curtis.

FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY will publish early in June "The Sphinx's Lawyer," by Frank Danby, a novel calculated to arouse much discussion because of its attitude toward the punishment of crime and toward conventional morality. In it a bohemian lawyer is influenced for his lasting good by the unselfish love of a noble woman.

BRENTANO'S have in press "Jerome Bonaparte: the Burlesque Napoleon," by Philip W. Sergeant, a record of the career of the grandfather of the present United States Secretary of the Navy, who was also Napoleon's youngest brother. While recounting the adventures of Jerome, an interesting sidelight is also thrown by Mr. Sergeant on the man who gave him public attention.

OLIVER DITSON COMPANY have brought out in their Half Dollar Music Series "Twenty Songs," set to music by Stephen Collins Foster, one of the earliest American composers, who was born in 1826 in Lawrenceburg, now a part of Pittsburg, Pa., and died in New York in 1864. The collection, which is clearly and neatly printed, has a biographical sketch of Foster, by N. Clifford Page, accompanied by a portrait.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. have made arrangements with Thomas Dixon, Jr., for a new book to be brought out early in 1907. It will be entitled "The Traitor," and will be the third of the trilogy of which "The Leopard's Spots" and "The Clansman" are part. It will deal with the downfall of the Ku-Klux Klan, and, unlike the other Dixon books, will scarcely touch the race problem. Mr. Dixon described it to his publishers as "a novel of love and hate."

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY will publish next month Winston Churchill's new novel, "Coniston," with illustrations by Florence Scovel Shinn. Mr. Churchill's new work, it is said, will be "a revelation to those who accept, without seeing their extent, the changes of the thirty years just ended. It is a vivid picture of New England life." The development of his hero's political power is outlined with deep insight, with plenty of humor, and with a full sense of the value of contrasts. The potent feminine element is by no means neglected.

HARPER & BROTHERS have just ready

"Guarding a Great City," by William McAdoo, formerly Commissioner of Police in Greater New York. The author takes the ground that the police system of New York City is not corrupt per se, and that the personnel of the force will compare favorably with that of any similar body of men in other world capitals. What is really needed, he thinks, is a better understanding between the citizen and his uniformed defender—upon the co-operation of one depends the efficiency of the other. They have also just ready a new edition of Lafcadio Hearn's excellent translation of "The Crime of Sylvestre Bonnard," by Anatole France.

LOTHROP, LEE & SHEPARD Co. will publish in September the first volume of a new series by "Margaret Sidney," to be entitled the Two Little Friends series. The first book will tell of "Two Little Friends in Norway," the friends being a bright little American girl and her Norwegian playmate. Mrs. Lothrop has just returned from a stay of nearly a year in the British Isles and Northern Europe. A second edition is also making of "Ben Pepper," the tenth volume of Mrs. Lothrop's wonderful Pepper Books, although the first edition was supposed to be almost inexhaustible. There will also be a second edition of "Dan Monroe: a story of Bunker Hill," by William O. Stoddard, which was the first volume of his Revolutionary Series.

FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY have nearly ready "On the Trail of the Immigrant," by Edward A. Steiner, which traces the immigrant from the beginning of his trail until he finds himself either segregated in his quarter with his former fellow patriots or assimilated into the real life of this great republic, and dealing justly with emigration problems, economic, social and religious. They also announce a new volume of essays by Dr. Frank W. Gunsaulus, of Central Church, Chicago, entitled "Grinding at the Mill;" and a second edition of Dillon Wallace's "The Lure of the Labrador Wild," furnished with a prefatory note of great interest, written by Mr. Wallace since his return from his second long journey through the lands he describes so vividly.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. have nearly ready a "History of the Town of Middleboro, Mass.," by Thomas Weston, which traces the history of the interesting old town from its incorporation in 1669 to the present time; Scott's "Quentin Durward," in the Riverside Literature Series, edited for school use by Miss L. M. Munger, of the Berkeley School, Cambridge, Mass., with a biographical sketch by Miss S. M. Francis, editor of the Cambridge edition of Lockhart's "Life of Scott;" the fourth volume of "The Proceedings of the International Congress of Arts and Sciences at St. Louis, Mo., September, 1904;" a Riverside Press edition of "Songs and Ballads," by Thomas Bailey Aldrich, limited to 430 numbered copies, of which 400 are for sale; also, Part XII. of "A Hebrew and English Lexicon of the Old Testament based on Gesenius," edited by Francis Brown, S. R. Driver and Charles A. Briggs.

THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO PRESS will publish shortly a work on "The Legislative History of Naturalization in the United States," by Dr. Frank George Franklin, who traces the debates on the subject in our legislatures from the beginning of the Revolutionary period to about 1865; "The Silver Age of the Greek World," by Professor John P. Mahaffy, which is a revision of "The Greek World Under Roman Sway," with much new material, covering the period from the subjugation of Greece by Rome to the accession of Hadrian, the period in which Greek ideas were diffused over the civilized world; the third volume of the "Ancient Records of Egypt," edited by Professor James H. Breasted; "Hebrew Life and Thought," by Mrs. Louise Seymour Houghton, a collection of studies in the literature of the Bible; also, "The Social Ideals of Alfred Tennyson as Related to His Times," by William Clark Gordon, already fully described by us.

THE WA-WAN PRESS, Newton Center, Mass., has recently published in its series of American Compositions four new issues of the fifth volume of the series, viz., No. 33, containing "The City of Sleep," by Arthur Reginald Little; "Take, O, Take Those Lips Away," two settings from "Measure for Measure," by John Beach and Frederick Ayres; also, "Eskimo Love Song," by Stanley R. Avery. Part 34 contains a prelude for the pianoforte by Arthur Shepherd, and "A Midwinter Idyl," for violin and pianoforte, by Edward F. Schneider. No. 35, the first part of the Spring Quarter, contains two South American gypsy songs, with violin obligato—"La Montonéra" and "La Zambulidora," by Henry F. Gilbert, the words being taken from Laura A. Smith's "Through Romany Songland." No. 36 contains "New Orleans Miniatures," for the pianoforte, by John Beach, entitled "Esplanade," "In an Ursiline Court," "Balcony Lyric," "Place d'Orleans," "Masques" and "Envoy." Arthur Farwell furnishes introductions to the pieces.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY have just ready "The Vine of Sibmah," a novel by Dr. Andrew Macphail, which offers a reading of the eternal thesis of love as it was written around the lives of a valiant soldier and a winsome woman in 1662; A. C. Benson's biography of "Walter Pater," in the English Men of Letters Series; "The Logic of Vegetarianism: Essays and Dialogues," by Henry S. Salt; "Electrical Engineering in Theory and Practice," by G. D. Aspinwall Parr; and "Lord Curzon in India: being a Selection from His Speeches as Viceroy and Governor-General of India, 1898-1905," with a portrait, explanatory notes and an index, and with an introduction by Sir Thomas Raleigh. Among forthcoming books are "An Introduction to the English Historians," by Dr. Charles A. Beard, of Columbia University; and "Socialism," by John Spargo, who will give in popular language a statement of the principles of modern scientific socialism from the Utopian idealism of Robert Owen to the scientific theories of Karl Marx and his followers.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small undisplayed advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," book-sellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

The Story of Paul Jones

By ALFRED HENRY LEWIS

Thousands and tens of thousands should welcome this charming historical romance. It is a great story of the fortunes of the intrepid sailor whose remains are now in America. A story that should find a place in every library, for it is the best book Mr. Lewis has yet produced. It has a grip and a fascination which will last long after the reader has emerged from its delightful spell.

The Bottom of the Well

By FREDERICK UPHAM ADAMS

Author of "John Burt," "The Kidnapped Millionaires," "John Henry Smith," etc.

When you have laid this book aside in the early hour of some morning you will not upbraid Mr. Adams that he has been the cause of losing to you a part of your accustomed sleep. You will agree with all the great critics who declare that "The Bottom of the Well" is a fascinating refutation of the conventional declaration that there is nothing new in fiction; yet the opening chapters are somewhat similar and have the same charm which lured them on in Robert Louis Stevenson's "Treasure Island."

"The Bottom of the Well" stands within the firing line of acclaimed literary greatness.

Extra Dry

Being Further Adventures of the Water Wagon

By BERT LESTON TAYLOR and W. C. GIBSON

Authors of "The Log of the Water Wagon"

In "Extra Dry" the literary plumbers have again donned their overalls, rolled up their sleeves and hammered out a prime job of ragtime plumbing. The adventures of the thirst-maddened castaways are portrayed in a manner to bring a lump to the throat of a New York cabman. In addition to this tongue warping narrative the book is interspersed with foolish and fantastic features and acrobatic feats of fancy calculated to make the reader sit up and take notice.

ALICE BROWN'S

The Court of Love

A little book, light as a bubble and easily read at a sitting, comes from the author of "Paradise." The Court of Love is irresistible in its comedy, laughable in its absurd situations, and kindly in its attitude toward modern life. 12mo, $1.25.

JOSEPH JASTROW'S

The Subconscious

A popular and interesting study of normal and abnormal subconscious activities, including dream experiences, the actions of drugs, of hypnotic conditions, of trance-states, and the dissolution of personality in hysterical and allied disorders. The author is professor of Psychology in the University of Wisconsin. Crown 8vo, $2.50 net. Postpaid, $2.66.

HUGO MUNSTERBERG'S

Science and Idealism

The author shows that science itself must fall asunder if we ever consistently disbelieved in metaphysical ideals. He proves that the æsthetic and logical, the moral and religious values belong forever to our real world, which without them would be not a world but a chaos, not real but a dream. These eternal values he resolves into one whose eternal character stands beyond doubt. 16mo, 85 cents net. Postpaid, 91 cents.

STEPHEN LEACOCK'S

Elements of Political Science

A broad and suggestive introduction to the study of Political Science, in which various theories of individualism, socialism, etc., are explained and the great expansion of state activity in the last fifty years is fully considered. Crown 8vo, $1.75 net, postpaid.

EUGENIA BROOKS FROTHINGHAM'S

The Evasion

"'The Evasion' is, from first to last, a study of the effects of a lie—of an evasion. As such it is powerful. The character of Gladys is at once refreshing and strong. The conversation of the book is natural—and interesting; the construction is good and the general impression is that of actuality. It is a creditable and sensitive piece of work."—Chicago Tribune. $1.50.

"Pigs is Pigs"

A little comic masterpiece by

ELLIS PARKER BUTLER

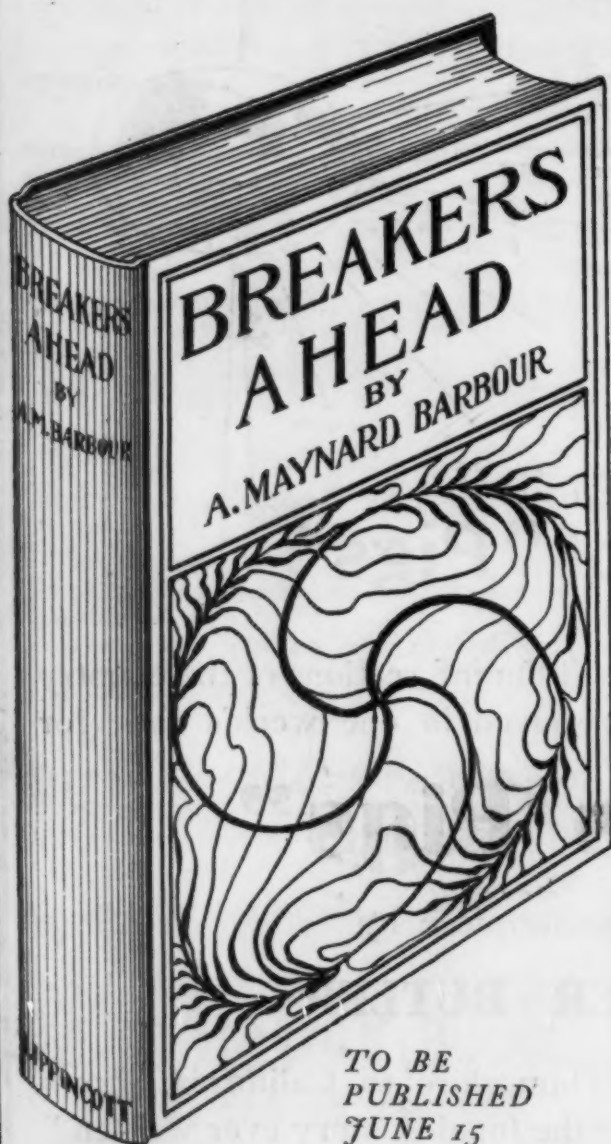

From Alaska to Cuba, from New Hampshire to California, letters have been pouring in asking for "the funniest story ever written." One reader writes: "It has made the whole family laugh—and the family is a large one." The Pittsburg Gazette says: "Whoever cannot laugh heartily over Mr. Butler's delightful extravaganza must be afflicted with incurable melancholia. It is calculated to exhilarate the most saturnine dyspeptic, while persons of giggly temperament are counseled to read it in solitary seclusion, lest their shrieks and roars excite doubts about their mental equilibrium."

The success of this book is even greater than we anticipated. It is selling in large quantities all over the country, and will continue to sell. We recommend that you have a good supply on hand. It will pay you.
